

MODULE 8

Reporting & Optimising Your Workflow

Goal: Know your numbers, spot patterns, and make decisions that move your pipeline forward.

IN THIS MODULE

- 01 Reading your dashboard summary: the 5 numbers that matter
- 02 Running a weekly pipeline review in 15 minutes
- 03 Spotting patterns: where do deals stall? Which contacts go cold?
- 04 Using filters and saved views for your most common checks
- 05 What good looks like at 30, 60, and 90 days

The 5 Numbers That Matter

You don't need to track everything — you need to track the right things. These 5 metrics tell you the health of your entire sales operation at a glance.

Dashboard metric cards — live pipeline numbers

Dashboard Charts — Trends Over Time

Below the metric cards, the Dashboard shows trend charts. These are more useful than snapshots because they reveal direction — are things getting better or worse?

Dashboard trend charts — 7-day windows

Analytics — Deeper Reporting

The Analytics page goes beyond the dashboard. Use it for weekly reviews, team performance checks, and identifying patterns in your pipeline.

The 15-Minute Weekly Pipeline Review

Every Friday (or Monday morning), run this review. It takes 15 minutes and gives you a clear action plan for the week ahead.

Using Filters & Saved Views

Saved filters let you create custom views you return to every week without reconfiguring. Set these up in your first week.

What Good Looks Like — 30 / 60 / 90 Days

Your metrics will look different at each milestone. Use these benchmarks to assess whether you're on track.

Module 8 Exercise — Weekly Review

Step-by-step:

- 1 Open your Dashboard. Write down your 5 key numbers right now.
- 2 Open Deals. Sort by Last Activity (oldest first). List every deal not touched in 7+ days.
- 3 For each stale deal: email or WhatsApp the contact today. Use AI to draft if needed.
- 4 Open Tasks. Count overdue. Resolve or reschedule all of them.
- 5 Open Analytics. Find the stage with the most contacts stuck. Identify why.
- 6 Create 3 priority tasks for this week. Assign due dates and mark High priority.
- 7 Set a recurring calendar reminder: "CRM Weekly Review" — every Friday at 9am, 15 minutes.
